Marylebone

Bordered by Oxford Street to the south and running up to Regent's Park in the north, Great Portland Street to the east and Edgware Road to the west. Marylebone is characterised by grand Georgian streets and as a business location, Harley Street is best known as the centre of the medical world in London. In the 18th century various wealthy families owned much of the area and their names still adorn some Marylebone streets and squares, including Cavendish Square and Portman Square.
